Wales' youthful lineup has dazzled the RWC as they progress to the semi-final at the expense of Ireland. France however dispatched the English in a close fought contest to send Martin Johnson's men home to the enquiry which will surely ensue. Wales have set an example both on and off the pitch and they have been a credit to this competition and thoroughly deserve their semi-final place.

Australia v New Zealand

The All Blacks were business-like in seeing off Argentina to secure their place in the World Cup semi-final against Australia and with no evidence of any throat problems so far New Zealand look worthy of their competition favouritism. For the Wallabies, their path has not been so straight forward but having sent the South Africans home there is no doubt that their defeat against Ireland was merely a hiccup.

Rugby World Cup

New Zealand is the venue for the 2011 Rugby World Cup where the hosts are hot favourites for the Webb Ellis trophy. Despite their recent dominance the All Blacks have failed to turn up in this tournament since winning the inaugural event in 1987. Meanwhile Australia have featured in three finals winning twice, holders South Africa were previous champions in 1995 and England have just the one victory to their name as a result of the famous Jonny Wilkinson drop kick in 2003.

Liverpool v Manchester United

Liverpool and Manchester United have not always seen eye to eye and this time it will be no different as the two meet at on Saturday at Anfield. Liverpool will be looking for their third league win on the bounce and potential elevation into the top 4. Meanwhile United top the table on goal difference ahead of their Manchester neighbours and three points ahead of Chelsea.

Chelsea v Everton

Stats fans will know that Chelsea are scoring on average three goals per match at home so keeping those out will be Everton's priority as they visit Stamford Bridge on Saturday evening. The Toffees on the other hand have had a difficult couple of weeks taking a beating off both Manchester United and their across-the-park neighbours and this will be as much of a challenge if not more.

ATP Shanghai Masters

Andy Murray set himself the target of becoming world number 3 by the end of 2011 and with back to back victories in the Thailand Open and the Japan Open events the Scot has given himself a real chance. Having come from a set down to overcome Rafael Nadal in the final in Japan Murray has possibly set himself on a path to #3 in the world above the great Roger Federer himself.
