Newcastle United v Chelsea

Underfire Chelsea visit the Sports Direct Arena to face Newcastle where the focus will be on Chelsea's failings not Newcastle's achievements. The situation at Chelsea is decending into crisis with pundits claiming manager Andre Villas-Boas must put the Blues back into winning ways this month or face the inevitable. Problem is if he doesn't beat the Toon he's got must-wins against Valencia and Man City next week.

Wigan Athletic v Arsenal

If results go their way and Chelsea's rot continues Arsenal can briefly claim a European place with a win at Wigan on Saturday. The Gunners have one less competition to worry about after their Carling Cup exit at the hands of Manchester City which will give the Gunners fresh impetus to focus on the league. Wigan's fortunes have seen an upturn with the defeat of Sunderland last weekend but they still remain entrenched in the drop zone.

Aston Villa v Manchester United

Villa host Manchester United in a week which has seen a United side containing 8 full internationals defeated by Championship side Crystal Palace. Some might argue that this is a good time to face Alex Ferguson's outfit but Palace may well have kicked the hornets nest and provoked something nasty to be dealt out at Villa Park on Saturday. United will no doubt come out fighting in this one.

English Premier League

Since the Premier League started in 1992 forty-five clubs have contested this trophy in nineteen seasons and only four clubs have ever won it, namely Manchester United, Chelsea, Arsenal and Blackburn Rovers. United have their name on the trophy twelve times and are obvious candidates again this time. Manchester City are the new boys on the block this season having last conquered the top flight in 1968.

I'm A Celebrity...
I'm A Celebrity is back where B and C-listers are tested by jungle discomfort and fed insects and animal parts for the shot at King Or Queen of the Jungle 2011. Mark Wright from TOWIE, Anthony Cotton from Corrie and Dougie Poynter out of McFly make the early running followed by Freddie Starr who allegedly has a strong stomach were rodents are concerned. Ant & Dec of course take us through it. Ugh.

Featured LTO Review This Week

It's very early days, but after 13 days review, SoccerBettingHQ is looking interesting. In particular System #2 is showing 73.81 points profit on a 100 point starting bank. System #2 is a clever adaptation of the well-known LayTheDraw system.
