Fulham v Bolton Wanderers

Having spent most of last season in the top half of the Premier League, Bolton now find themselves in the opposite position this time round stuck at the foot of the table with just 9 points out of a possible 45 staring at their worst season start since 1902. Meanwhile things aren't too chipper at Craven Cottage either with transfer talk, injuries and their recent exit from a promising European campaign.

Wigan Athletic v Chelsea

Andre Villas-Boas will be singing along when the Chelsea fans play The Great Escape this weekend having delivered when the boss needed it most. With Chelsea's qualification to the Champions League knock out phase secured together with the dispatching of both Newcastle and Manchester City, AVB's future at Stamford Bridge looks safe enough for now. Next stop Wigan, for a fourth win on the bounce.

QPR v Manchester United

QPR memories will go back nearly two months to when Chelsea came to Loftus Road with great expectations and were duly smashed back down the road by a truly pugilistic Hoops performance. Manchester United can expect much of the same and QPR striker Jamie Maskie has already proclaimed the 'up in their face' war cry and with United's midfield options limited this one could be another surprise in the offing.

Manchester City v Arsenal

The M6 will be busy this weekend with United at QPR on Saturday and Arsenal in Manchester to face City on Sunday. City's fortunes have changed somewhat since their Champions League exit and defeat at the hands of Chelsea last weekend. Meanwhile Arsenal conversely appear to be back on track sitting a handy fifth in the league taking 22 points out of their last available 24.
